“ Mom I started crying tonight watching videos with Bob and thinking about what a great Mom you are. When I was in Kindergarten I use to have to walk to school and these bullies use to kick me and harrass me. I was scared and you would have me hide on the side of the house til Daddy went to work. You would bring me in the house and keep me safe. & make me feel like a princess. I love and miss you Mom.

“ It's Wednesday April 26, 2017. It's been 1 month & 10 days since you have passed Mom. I miss you more than ever. I felt a strong presence of you the other day. I didn't want it to go away. I want you in my dreams. I love you Mom, your baby girl, Terrie

“ My Grandma Wesson's memorial service is today April 2nd @ 4:30PM IN St. George, UT. Any of my friends who were blessed to have met her should attend. I have/had as many as 10 Grandparents and I have to say, Grandma Wesson is 2nd to no one when it comes to love, affection and being 100% what an amazing grandparent is supposed to be.

I rarely saw her without a smile on her face, or saying something nice about someone or something. If you ask me the one thing I'll remember most about her is that!!! She may have been the most uplifting, inspired, warmhearted compassionate and adoring! I was not in her life the last few years but my wonderful mother kept me updated constantly and I spoke to her every so often. No matter the circumstance she always spoke to me with genuine enthusiasm and love. She would say just about every time I talked to her that she wanted a "Carl Hug" I'm extremely sad to say that I never got to give her one last Carl hug, regrettably it was for immature and selfish reasons that kept me from getting to St George to see her before her passing.

I love you Grandma Wesson forever and now you are with your sweetheart Bobby!!! You both will go down as my favorite grandparents ever!!!

“ When I was in high school grandma came with Uncle Bob and my mom to the Alaska Club and watched one of my tennis matches. After I lost I walked over to talk to them and grandma told me that I looked like Tom Cruise out there. She was always full of compliments and never said a bad thing about anyone. She always made me feel good about myself and she was one of the few people that made me feel happy just being in the same room as her. She was also one of the few people that actually got my jokes and I could just be myself around. I am so lucky and grateful that I was able to spend a decent amount of time with her in the months before she passed. She was still with it, right up until the end. In the few weeks before she died she would tell me that I was her angel. I will take that over being Tom Cruise any day. I miss her terribly but I will always be her angel and she will always be mine. I love you grandma, I think about you every day, thank you for everything.

Love this Shannon, and I love you too, of course. I had forgotten about the tennis match, and the Tom Cruise comment, but now it all came back to me. I hope that I tell you enough how much your grandma and I both appreciate you and especially appreciated all the time you spent here at our house helping her so much, and truly making her last time here so special for her. She loved you so much, I really hope you know that. I really think you do. Oh, damn I'm a mess again, but it's all good. Ill probably need your help getting through tomorrow.

“ It still doesn't seem real somehow. This house is so lonely without her. I will never ever forget what an incredible mother she was. Every friend I have ever had growing up until now, has loved my mom. What's not to love? It sincerely was an honor and privilege to take care of you all of these years. I love and miss you so much.

“ Grandma Jane was such a lovely person. She always had a smile and kind words for me, and even as she got older she was the exact same way with my own children. I know she had her fiesty side, but I can't remember her ever saying an unkind thing to me. As a child I adored her because she was so much fun - I will always remember her with love.

“ I still can't really believe that she is gone. I can't even begin to express how much I love and miss her. I wake up thinking that this was all a bad dream. Mom, everyone who met and knew you, loved you so much. Thank you for teaching me so much in life. Especially, love, tolerance, acceptance, forgiveness, humor, the importance of education... and especially my appreciation of music. I hope that you are so happy where you are now playing the piano for everyone, and making them all laugh and love you the way we did here.

“ I have not been able to say anything yet because I just don't want to think that it is really true, but it is. My mom, Jane, was a wonderful mom who would have done anything she could for me and anyone else. She was kind and loving toward everyone, even during her last weeks telling everyone who helped her, "I love you and thank you!" I will forever be grateful for her teaching me to be kind to everyone and always putting your best foot forward, my love for all things Christmas, and loving music, and for my sense of adventure, and so much more. Love you forever, like you for always as long as I'm living my mother you will be.

I know Grandma was so thankful for you and loved you so much. You (and of course Terrie and Bob) were always there for her and took good care of her. You can take solace in knowing that you were an excellent daughter to her. Love you, mom - Kathryn

“ My favorite memories of my mother are all of her playing the piano...I especially adored her playing Christmas carols. I could listen to her play the piano for hours on end...it is because of my mother that I have a strong love and sincere appreciation for the Fine Arts. At the age of 60 ~ I finally have my dream job of working with Magnet students in a wonderful Fine Arts program here in Houston, Texas. My mother played piano with my son (her youngest grandchild) every single time we visited her in both Reno, Nevada and Waco, Texas. Mother ~ your smile always could light up any room you graced your presence with...
