“ This man was the most thoughtful, selfless man, I have ever met. He was full of charity and love for all. He would give the shirt off of his back if he had to. He was loved by so many. He was the best grandpa. He was full of stories and love for everyone of his grand kids. He was full of wisdom, jokes and a story for every occasion. It was always such a pleasure and honor to sit with him and hear tales of his childhood...or just for advice on life. Boy he had a sweet tooth too. I am blessed he was my father in law. He will be so missed. If any man could be exemplify Christ, it was this man. Forever in our hearts you will be.

“ I remember so well his smile, his kindness, the spirit of the Lord he carried with him. I loved him as a friend and as my bishop.....Sister Joan Collier. I shall always remember Bishop Blackburn, he was my Bishop, my neighbor and when going by my house when I was working on old tree stumps, Joe always offered to help with a bag of termites. He will be missed. Brother John Collier

“ Ralph Waldo Emerson said that the secret of the world was that all things subsist and do not die, but instead retire a little from sight and afterwards return again. I think this will ring true for this man, whether in the form of a voice in our ear or a whisper to the soul. Certainly I can say there is a void left in my heart for now that will take a little while to mend. Mostly I am grateful for the opportunity to have known him not just as a decent human being but as a man of wisdom, of love, passion, and as my grandfather. If there is a model to how I should shape my character, I should see it in him. I love you, grandpa. Rest in peace.
